HIVE TILES

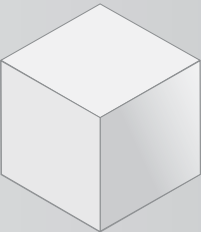

Created by stone artisan Giovanni Barbieri our latest offering, Hive tiles feature deep relief patterns comprised of repeating hexagons. Our Hive™ tiles are patterned in wood, chiseled stone and an etched linear pattern, fitting together to create a visually stunning display of endless geometry with repeating hexagons. Different overall patterns can be obtained when installing the two tile sets of convex and concave tiles in a random or regular configuration. Hive tiles are made of engineered marble and travertine Stone by recycling waste marble or travertine powder through a laboratory tested process, recreating the look of wood and natural stone. The products follow an ASTM and European certification code being UV and fire rated, resistant to frost and atmospheric agents as well as common domestic acids and detergents.
